New ITOPF (20/21) Handbook published

ITOPF has just published its annual Handbook for 2020/21.

The new edition contains a wealth of valuable information and guidance for those likely to be involved in spills of oil and chemicals or other substances from ships.

The new edition includes updated oil spill statistics and a revised section on pollution liability and compensation, as well as regular features on ITOPF's services, different types of marine spills, clean-up techniques, and the fate and effects of oil in the marine environment.
