India to Deploy Naval Aircraft at France’s La Réunion for Joint Surveillance Mission
Within the first few months of 2020, India will deploy a naval aircraft at France’s reunion island as part of joint surveillance mission with France in the southern Indian Ocean. For the Indian Navy, access to French southern Indian Ocean territories would mean longer deployment missions in regions where visible flag-waving is seen as crucial to counter growing Chinese naval presence.

Al Shabaab targets Burundian troops
Al Shabaab detonated a roadside improvised explosive device (IED) targeting Burundian forces serving under the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM) near Mahaday town in Middle Shabelle region in central Somalia on Oct. 25th. Burundian forces mistakenly killed two farmers in the vicinity in response to the attack.

Somalia hands over two Al Shabaab militants to Kenya
Two members of the al-Qaeda affiliated al-Shabaab militant group suspected of carrying out an Oct. 12 roadside bombing in northern Kenya that killed 11 police officers are in Kenyan custody. Police in Kenya confirmed late on Thursday 24th that Somalia had handed over the two men following their arrest.

Al Shabaab claims attacks
Al Shabaab claimed to kill a UN staff member and wound an official from the Somali Prime Minister's office in a bombing in the Waberi district of Somalia's capital, Mogadishu, on October 24. The group also claimed three attacks on Somali National Army (SNA) forces in southern Somalia on October 23, including a bombing and an ambush in Lower Jubba region and a bombing in the outskirts of Mogadishu. The attacks are unconfirmed.

Somalia deploys fresh troops to central town as tensions rise
Somalia has deployed more troops to Dhusomareb, the administrative capital of the central regional state of Galmudug, reports say. Planes carrying soldiers from the Somali army as well as ammunition arrived in the town ahead of the expected arrival of a government delegation. The delegation, led by Prime Minister Hassan Ali Khayre, is expected to arrive in the coming days to ease political tensions in the region as the regional elections near.

Somalia says Shell, Exxon agree to pay $1.7 mln for oil blocks lease
Royal Shell and Exxon Mobil have paid $1.7 million to Somalia to lease offshore blocks for 30 years, the country's state news agency reported on Friday 25th. "Shell/Exxon Mobil have paid $1.7 million to Somalia as the preliminary rent for 30 years," SONNA reported.

Analysis
Al Shabaab continues to mount operations throughout the country, despite efforts by U.S Central Command to degrade its capabilities with ongoing airstrikes which aim to remove AS leadership. It is questionable as to whether this "body count" policy is working.

Threat Assessment
The political situation has seen increased tension between regional states and the Federal Government. Should this continue, there is an opportunity for criminal organisations to return to their previous maritime activities. Al Shabaab continues to challenge the government and efforts to disrupt its operations continue, although AMISOM forces will withdraw some time in 2019. The trade in illegal charcoal by terror and crime groups continues, although the Combined Maritime Forces and UN are working on measures to prevent it. Youth unemployment in Somalia has not improved with 67% of Somali male youths aged between 14 to 29 unemployed. Pirate financiers offer lucrative and attractive opportunities, and were seen to be increasingly active in the last inter-monsoon period. Recent incidents off Somalia have highlighted the robust protections offered by both BMP5s and well-trained, vigilant armed protection teams. Illegal fishing has returned to the region and there are wider political concerns that it could spark a resurgence in maritime crime unless checked. There is a risk that complacency in some quarters has seen a reduction in PMSC presence in these waters that could result in a piracy success. A lack of adherence to BMP5 protocol, particularly not maintaining a safe distance off the coast, has increased risks to shipping. Merchant vessels would be wise to maintain the same distance from the coast, particularly ensuring that the Socotra Gap isn’t taken. All vessels are advised to update risk assessments and register with UKMTO/MSCHOA prior to entering the Indian Ocean High Risk Area (HRA).
A Saudi-brokered agreement has been reached between the warring sides in the south of Yemen, paving the way for wider peace talks to end the five-year civil war. The Southern Transitional Council, backed by the United Arab Emirates, in August seized control of the southern port city of Aden, leaving the Saudi- and UN-backed government led by President Abd Rabbu Mansour Hadi in possession of little land or effective power. Hadi had already been thrown out of Yemen’s capital, Sana’a, in 2014 by Iranian-backed Houthi rebels.

Yemeni ministers targeted in assassination attempt
Yemen’s ministers of interior and transport survived an assassination attempt in the southern province of Shabwah on the 28th, just hours after an initial deal between the country’s internationally recognised government and the southern separatist group. Reports said Interior Minister Ahmed Al-Maisari who also serves as the deputy prime minister, and Transport Minister Saleh Al-Jabwani were reportedly targeted in the car bomb on Monday near their homes in the provincial capital of Atnaq.

The explosion, which occurred for the second time in less than a month, targeted the crude oil pipeline in Rawdah district in the east of Shabwa, the local government official said on condition of anonymity.

UAE supports Yemeni electricity sector with 4th oil shipment
A UAE ship carrying oil derivatives has docked at the port of Mukalla (Oct. 27th) as part of the country’s efforts to support the electricity sector in the Governorate of Hadramaut in Yemen. Mohammed Al Amoudi, Under-Secretary of the Government of Hadramaut for Technical Affairs, who received the ship, said the UAE’s support for the electricity sector in the governorate had eased the suffering of the local population. He acknowledged that the oil shipment had come at a time when the sector was experiencing a shortage of oil derivatives.

Arab coalition repositioned in Yemen
As part of its ongoing efforts to coordinate military and security operation plans in Yemen, the Arab coalition announced on Sunday that its forces had been repositioned in the southern Yemeni port city of Aden to fall under Saudi command. The repositioning aims to enhance humanitarian missions and strengthen efforts to secure waterways adjacent to the Yemeni coast. Moreover, it aims to combat terrorism in the country.

Houthis and Yemen’s government set up joint observation posts in Hodeidah
Yemen’s government and Houthi rebels have set up joint observation posts as part of de-escalation moves in the flashpoint city of Hodeidah, a move the United Nations welcomed on Wednesday 23rd. Martin Griffiths, the UN’s envoy for Yemen wrote on Twitter that the establishment of the four positions along frontlines in the key port, and the deployment of liaison officers, were positive moves.

Fighting continues in and around Hodeidah

Port issues continue for tankers

Migrant statistics in the Mediterranean (Figures last updated on Oct. 29th 2019). Source: UNHCR

The European parliament has rejected a plan to step-up search and rescue operations for refugees and migrants in the Mediterranean, thanks to an alliance of far-right and centre-right parties. The EU’s legislature narrowly defeated the motion by 290 votes against to 288 in favour. The resolution called on member states to step up efforts to rescue people drowning in the sea, with more than 1,000 lives having already been claimed this year.

Rescue ship with 104 migrants on board seeks help from EU nations
An NGO which runs the Mediterranean rescue ship Ocean Viking, with 104 migrants onboard, called on European authorities on Monday 28th to designate a safe disembarkation spot. French association SOS Mediterranean, along with Doctors without Borders (MSF), said among those aboard the ship are two pregnant women and 41 children younger than 18.

Libya-flagged patrol boats threaten ship rescuing migrants in Mediterranean
A humanitarian aid group says gunmen on Libya-flagged patrol boats have threatened the crew of its rescue ship Alan Kurdi and the migrants it was rescuing, firing shots into the air and water, AP reports. Sea-Eye’s spokesman Gordon Isler said that the unprecedented incident Saturday 26th on the Mediterranean Sea was a “total shock” for the rescue crew, but that they had managed to bring all the roughly 90 migrants on board without any serious injuries.

Mediterranean Migrant Arrivals Reach 82,978 in 2019; Deaths Reach 1,080
The International Organization for Migration (IOM) reports that 82,978 migrants and refugees have entered Europe by sea through 23rd Oct., a 15 per cent decrease from the 97,765 arriving during the same period last year. Over half all arrivals this year (45,105) have landed in Greece, while almost one-quarter (20,036) have landed in Spain. Greece and Spain combine to account for 78 per cent of the region’s irregular sea landings, with the balance arriving in much smaller proportions to Italy, Malta and Cyprus.

The current migrant smuggling situation
The region has continued to see large numbers of migrants put to sea over the past week, leading to further issues for NGO rescue missions as they attempt to disembark those rescued at EU ports. Reports that a NGO vessel was threatened by elements of the Libyan Coast Guard or Navy have emerged once again, raising concerns that the recent detente enjoyed by NGO missions may now be over. The Libyans deny any knowledge of the incident, but it will certainly focus the attention of rescuers in future and could possibly lead to a worsening situation for migrants hoping to be rescued in and around Libya’s TTW. There are still no significant rescue operations being conducted by nation states in the region, other than Libya itself.

Abducted Medical Staff Freed After 12 Days
Six medical workers abducted by a local armed group in Zintan, Libya, were freed on Oct. 23rd, 2019, after 12 days of captivity, Human Rights Watch said today. The Zintan authorities should ensure that the captors are held to account. The six medical workers were part of a larger humanitarian convoy passing through the Nafussa mountains on their way to the town of Ghadames, where they were to provide free medical care, their family members told Human Rights Watch. The family members said they believed the captors were trying to gain leverage for the release of a man imprisoned in Tripoli for undisclosed reasons.

NOC seeks changes to tap into output potential
The role of oil in the Libyan economy and the state’s control of it need to undergo dramatic change, officials in the industry and the country’s private sector have said. Libyan National Oil Company (NOC) officials, speaking at the Libyan Energy Sector Development Forum Oct. 21st-22nd in Tunis, said Libya’s oil production stands at approximately 1.3 million barrels per day (bpd). That is the highest level it has been since mid-2013 but significantly lower than the 1.6 million bpd figure before the 2011 revolution.

The Nigerian Ports Authority (NPA) needs about N50billion to fix dilapidated fenders and purchase new patrol boats for the ports across the country, it was reported on Oct. 27th. It was gathered that the ships that call at the Lagos Port Complex (LPC) experience prolonged waiting time to berth and delayed quick cargo clearance from the port because the fenders in most of the terminals are bad.

The group, under the aegis of “Association of Professionals for Safety in Shipping in Nigeria,” APOSSIN, noted that the directive was not only ill-advised but also will be counter-productive, stressing that NPA does not have the authority to make such pronouncement on an arrangement by another agency of government to deliver on its mandate.

‘Make Sabah a ship bunkering hub first’

At least one key port in Sabah, Malaysia, is expected to be ready and available as a bunkering hub to supply ships with low sulphur bunker fuel by 2020. Sabah, which is producing offshore gas that can be converted into commercial liquefied natural gas (LNG), considered a clean fuel for ships without any sulphur residues or air pollution discharge, has an advantage. LNG is emerging as a strong contender to the traditional bunker fuel.

The repercussions of a vessel being caught acting as a mule with drugs stowed will depend on the type, amount and national laws, but may be disruptive and costly. When and if operating in these areas, especially Columbia and Peru, it is advised that:

• Potential stowage areas such as rudder shafts are denied as far as possible, and/or routinely searched.
• Access points are closely monitored by a vigilant watch for the duration of the vessel’s call at port.
